THE Returns of Trade at the Korean Treaty norts for 1885 conclusively demonstrate that, as Mr. MERRILL, Chief Commissioner, writes, " no sudden growth in commercial prosperity can be looked for" in that additional battery is situated between the previously existing forts. Kingdom. The people are very poor, are woefully deficient in enterprise, and have few wants, luxuries of any kind almost being of the Northamptonshire Regiment will not play practically unknown. Perhaps the best illustration of the extremely small means possessed by this people is the fact related by Mr. MEREILL that matches are sold in hunches of about a dozen tied with thread. Nevertheless many foreign goods are appreciated, and the demand for them will grow " so soon as the Koreans discover that labour and enterprise can render them available. The resources of the country are also described as being of a very limited description. though they are capable of material development. The gold mines yield a fair profit to the Koreans who work them, but it is not total of 42,580 gallons, valued at $7,444, as against known whether they would pay with European inachinery. At present the mines near Masannoo are in a small valley, in which all classes on account of its superior light-giving shaft-like wells from 15 to 25 feet properties, and a large increase in its consumpdeep are sunk and the earth thus empty tins to ingenious uses. They neatly cut extracted is washed by women, who pick the tin open, and either carefully flatten out the out the specks of gold. When the water are employed in these mines. Copper ore is also found close to this valley, and a Japanese merebant is trying to work it, having Club remain unaltered, the member who was exerected a small smelting furnace adjoining the cettlement at Fusau. But the mineral resources of the country have yet to be thoroughly examined. Mr. Commissioner at about 5.30 p.m. and the race LOYATE is confident they will prove sufficient to bring the Koreans in exchange the riches and will start from a properly arranged line over and comforts of other countries, and he recommends, among other things, that a licence should be issued by Royal authority · to anyone applying for it to search for and work any minerals or treasures, a royalty to be paid on same. The quantity of scable land in Korea is very limited, and not sufficient, in Mr. LOVATT's opinion, to do much more than produce necessary food for the One product could, however, much more largely grown, namely, ginseng, and Mr. MEBRILL advocates the removal of the prohibition of its export by sea, when a great increase in its production would take place, much to the benefit of the revenue, while adding to the purchasing power of the people.

If this most sensible suggestion be carried into effect, and the attempt to establish silk culture on a large scale prove successful,

Korean exports would quickly expand to respectable proportions. As we have said, however, the trade, both in imports and exports, must for some years necessarily remain dience proved quite as appreciative as ever limited, and it is as well that the fact should may not be raised among some who muy yet fondly imagine the peninsular kingdom a l new El Dorado.

pared thus to flout England and her Aus-trade, and that the island of Repushould be ceded. France wasquiteredly to comply with these requirements, and the negotiations therefore centred on the sanction of the Australian Governments. This has not been granted.

New South Wales and New Zealand are willing, but the other colonies consider that the establishment of another French settlement so near to Australia as the New Hebrides would be much more than an equivalent for the cessation of the convict nuisance. The British Government certainly took the right course in this matter by basing their final in the question. It is of small importance to England berself whether the Frenchflag flies over Espiritu Santo, the chief island. The group has a population of about 140,000 all told, and that would not make any important difference to the balance of power in the Pacific. The Australians, however, view the question from their own standpoint.

Filled with belief in their own destiny to become the dominant Power at the Antipodes, they view with jeulously and altrm every effort of European States to augrandise themselves in that part of the world. The colonial motto, "Advance, Australia!" means something more than an aspiration for commercial prosperity. It represents the inherent conception of the Australian mind that the scattered groups in the South Picific belong of right to the great island whose mighty shadow covers them all. No wonder herefore that the intelligence of the boisting of the French flag there produced strong ever, subsided no doubt on the receipt of the French Premier's reassuring note, content-mont will supervene, and will probably not again be disturbed. At the same time it would be as well, if possible, to get a final settlement of this vexed question. The

He did not think much of her obsence at first, as the thought of treachery never crossed his unsuspecting mind, but when he subsequently found that his pillow box was cleaned of the hoard he carried there he smelt a rat, and went to the police. The lady does not return, despite the distress of the deluded emigrant, and as yet all efforts to find her have failed. It is only fair to the sex to say that this is not a business which has originated title subjects of mutual interest, which has been with them, for a considerable number of women have been victimised by some unprincipled rascals who have driven a regular trade of that kind on board the passenger steamors.

The Calcutta Englishman confirms the statement of the authorities at Peking as to the Thibet Mission, that. Mr. Macaulay obtained leave only for himself_to proceed to Lhassa, on an informal mission in the interests of commerce. Nothing was arranged as to escort, or train, and our contemporary adds:- "It is a pity that a loop hele was left for Chinese diplomacy, but it is doubtless difficult to realise the requirements of such an expedition until the arrangements are actually being made. The Government of India, although acting under the instructions of the Secretary of State, had certainly no intention of exceeding the scope of the agreement with China; but an embassy to Lhassa is by no means a simple affair, and the Mission has been planned with a view to the most careful economy of resources. At Peking, however, the Mission, as planned and manned, was catenably regarded with alarm, and a remonstrance was made on the subject to the British Minister. It was stated that, should a Mission on such a scale be sent forward, orders would be given to oppose it at the frontier, and the Great Powers would be called upon to intervene." The immense work which this entailed was carried on simultaneously with the discharge of his official duties in the Colonial and Consular Services. Dr. Hance's chief botanical work was in descriptive and systematic botany; scarcely a month has passed for many years without seeing the publication of descriptions of some plants from China which were new to science or notes on others which were new to the country.

In 1871 Dr. Hance published a Supplement to the "Flora Hongkongensis," which was much needed, as there had been many discoveries in the island subsequent to the parlication by Bentham a decade before of the "Flora Hongkongensis."

The first number in 1878 of the Journal of Botany contained a paper from the pen of this eminent author entitled "Spicelegia Flores Sinensis." Contributions under this title have been constantly appearing since that time, and they have contained "Diagnosis of New and Habitats of Rare or Hitherto Unrecorded Chinese Plants" to the number of 633 species. Dr. Hance truly remarked in a quotation from Miquel at the commencement of this series of papers and 23rd inst.

Westranslate M. Bert's opening address from Avenir du Tonkin :-

Gentlemen, I have appointed you by Ordinance; you ought to be appointed by a Presidential decree; until the arrival of the latter, therefore, you are only a Provisional Counoil. Owing to my approaching departure for Hué your next meeting will not take place for some time unless the Resident Superiour should convene you. Your duties and powers will also it. You may be sure I shall nover disregard your advice without explaining why, and that the reasons will have to be very strong ones to induce me to do so. My predecessors have rendered one part of my task easy. Security now exists almost throughout the whole of Tonquin. We owe this to the courage of our soldiers, including those who have latterly been enrolled in the native corps. In the delta it is for us to maintain this security; it is an affair, as has been said, of gendarmerie. On the frontier there may perhaps still be certain movements, but The other articles are only used by foreign renot of great importance: We may therefore without inquistude, at least in Tonquiu, set ourselves to our pacific work. The first question which ought to occupy us is that of finance. It is important that we should assure sufficient resources to accomplish all that we intend for the benefit of this fine country. These resources we hope to secure, in the ordinary way, by taxation. This country has long known direct taxation, his plough home on his shoulder after his day's levied on property. An antidote to pignomunia has been at last discovered; and the bonefactor is a Berlin inventor. His invention bears the name of "plane-killer." The inventor referred to—an electrician—had been told by a friend of the sufferings he had to undergo by reason of the expessive instrumentstion of a neighbour, and he determined to help him. In order to do this he introduced a large electro-magnet into the room of the sufferer, which adjoined the room containing the offending piano. The poles of the magnet being directed to the partition wall, an electric battery was connected with the magnet and a stream of magnetism so strong was infused into the wall that the steel strings of the piano were attracted and the utmost discord was produced. The horror of the piano player may be imagined. This mode of taking revenge is as ingenious as

A letter from Heidelberg in the Berlin Dar Etho says that a rich American has offered to provide the city on the Neckar, already famous for its gigantic tun, with "the biggest inkstand in the world." He thinks that the inauguration of a "mammoth inkpot" would be a most appropriate part of the ceremonial at the approaching centenary of the university; while it would be much more fitting for the citizens of the Athens on the Nocker to beast that they owned the biggest thing in ink-pots rather than the biggest thing in wine barrels. The generous man is the owner of an endrmous monolith in Texas, which could be excavated so as to hold countless gallons of ink. The stone is worth at least $1,500; but he will gladly present it to the city, or the university, if the authorities will arrange for the cost of its transit from America to the Palatinate of the Rhine. It is not like the Cleopatra obelisk, observes the owner, for it has never been "desecrated by a chisel."

The Russian Official Messenger give the following account of the ceremony attending the Ameer of Bokhara's accession to the throne, which was held on the 16th November, 1885.-"At daybreak the members of the Mahomedan clergy, the troops, the representatives of the Usbog families, and the civil officers assembled in the Ameer's palace. After a short interval the Prince's most intimate companions began to prepare the throne, a large block of blue-grey marble, about 9ft. 4in. broad and 4ft. 8in, high, with steps leading to the top. It was first covered with seven Bokhara and Indian corpets of precious texture, and then at its feet was placed a felt rug of immaculate whiteness and incomparable fineness: At 11 o'clock the Prince came forth from his apartments richly apparelled. All those present prostrated themselves. The Prince returned their salute and seated himself on the white felt at the foot of the throne. The high officials and the Usbeg representatives then took the ends of the felt rug and by a united movement raised the Prince and placed him on the throne. This ceremony was followed by pro-found salutations and loud acclamations, and then by the 'kiss-hands,' which may be termed the cath of allegiance, as it is the practice after kissing the Ameer's hand to carry it to the eyes and the forehead. After this was finished the audience raised their arms to the heavens and prayed aloud for the new Ameer. Sweets were then distributed, and the Ameer withdrew to his own apartments, accompanied by his two chief

LIVING SIX YEARS WITHOUT GOING TO BED.

Mr. EDITOR.—While spending a few days at the pleasant seaside town of Aberystwith, Cardiganshire, Wales, I heard related what seemed to SHIP'S COMPRADORES, STEVEDORES, me either a fabulous story or a marvellous oure. The story was that a poor sufferer who had not been able to lie down in bed for six long years, given up to die by all the Doctors, had been speedily cured by some Patent Medicine. It was related with the more implicit confidence from the circumstance, as was said, that the Vicar of Llanrystyd was familiar with the facts, and could vouch for the truth of the report.

Having a little curiosity to know how such stories grow in travelling, I took the liberty while at the village of Llaurystyd to call upon the Vicar, the Rev. T. Evans, and to enquire about this wonderful ours. Though a total LARGE stranger to him, both he and his wife most graciously entertained me in a half hour's con- Address:- Care of Messrs. K wong Sung & Co., versation, principally touching the case of Mr. Pugh, in which they seemed to take a deep and sympathetic interest, having been familiar with his sufferings, and now rejoiced in what seemed to them a most remarkable ours. The Vicar remarked that he presumed his name had been connected with the report from his having men-tioned the case to Mr. John Thomas, a chemist ARY of Llanon. He said Mr. Pugh was formerly a resident of their parish, but was now living in the parish of Llanddeinel. He strongly vouched Mr. Wm. Pugh's character as a respectable farmer and worthy of sense of the happy relation of a pastor and people; feeling that he was one who truly sympathised with all who are afflicted in mind, body, or estate.

On my return to Aberystwith, I was impressed with a desire to see Mr. Pugh, whose reputation stood so high. His farm is called Pancom-Mawr. beautiful valley in which is situated the levely Mr. Pugh, apparently about 40 years old, of medium height, rather slight, with a pleasant and intelligent face. I told him I heard of his great affliction and of his remarkable and almost miraculous relief, and that I had come to learn from his own lips, what there was of truth in the

Mr. Pugh remarked that his neighbours had taken a kindly and sympathetic interest in his case for many years, but of late their interest had been greatly awakened by a happy change in his condition. What you report as having heard abroad, said he, is substantially true, with one exception. I never understood that my case was ever given up as hopeless by any Physician. I have been treated by several Doctors hereabouts. as good as any in Wales, but unfortunately no

Early in this last spring I had a still more severe spasmodic attack, and my family and neighbours became alarmed, believing that certainly I would not survive, when a neighbour, who had some knowledge, or had heard of the medicine, sent to Aborystwith by the driver of the Omnibus Post, some seven miles distant, and fetched a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative

This medicine they administered to me according to the directions, when to their surprise and delight no less than my own, the spasm ceased, I became at ease, and my stomach was calmed. My bowels were moved as by a gentle cathartic, and I felt a sense of quiet comfort all through such as I had not before realized in many years. I Punjom and Sunghie Dua Samantan Mining could walk around the house and breathe comfortably in a few hours after I had taken the medicine. I have continued to take the medicine daily now for something over two months, and I can lay down and sleep sweetly at nights and have not since had a recurrence of those terrible spasms and sweatings. I have been so long broken down and reduced in my whole system that I have not tried to perform any very hard cut-door labour, deeming it best to be prudent lest by over-exertion I may do myself injury Chinese Imperial Loan of 1884 A-2 per cent. before my strength is fully restored. I feel that my stomach and bowels have been and are being thoroughly renovated and renewed by the medicine. In fact I feel like a new man. Believing this remarkable case of Dyspeptic The above Time Table will be strictly adhered Asthma should be known to the public, I beg to to, except under unavoidable circumstances. In

CHINESE PORCELAIN CHEONOLOGY OF THE CERAMIC ART IN THE

CELESTIAL EMPIRE much-talked-of Chinese vases found in Egyp-which occurred under the Han dynasty, may but that, this limit once passed, it is better be placed beteew 187 B.C. and 87 A.D.; to fall off. An illustration of this is afforded but we have no precise knowledge of the in the present race by a jockey who wearied date; and the probabilities are in favour of no doubt; by the heat and excitement of the the younger era. There were no famous contest, gets himself neatly flung over the porrelains prior to the Seventh century; and railing at the side of the course into the coul the first really beautiful manufacture would waters of the lake. the Signen-te pariod. Nevertheless, the art hering .- St. James's Budget. of using cobaltiferous manganese for blue decoration belongs to the much later Tobengte period (1506-1521). Compared with the Tching-hoa porcelains the "peach-blow vase" is modern enough-although, if authentic, it must have the respectable age of at least one hundred and forty-four years, as it belongs to the Khang-hy period, which began in 1662 and ended in 1722. The Khang-hy period was famous for the work of Thang-in-siouon, an artist who was popularly believed to have been inspired by the genius who presides over porcelain manufacture, and his vases are very famous. They are classed as Che-po-lou, or "Serpent-green"; Chen-yuhoang, or "Eel-yellow"; Ki-tsoni, or "Beautiful-azure," and Hoangstien-pan, or "Y lowspeckled." His red and violet wases were also deemed very pecious-though less so than the above. In those days, and even in a country where the value of money - is so enormous, a Chinese artist offen. obtained as much as a thousand loang, a ounces of silver for a pair of cups, or even for one small vase. After his death, the value of elebrated maker's work steadil increased; and it is quite probable that Mrs Morgin's, vase was obtained at a figure which, however large to our idea of values, must have been considered cheap by the Chinese possessor. The Chinese, indeed, are even funder of such antiquities than the average Oscidental amateur; and one of the industries in which they excel to-day is the counterfeiting of antiques. Men have actual-

The city of Tokyo is an fels for the great spring meeting, held under the direction of the Imperial Japanese Jockey Club. All the morning crowds of people have been wending their way on foot to the quarter of the city known as Uveno, near to which is the racecourse; while the jinriksha coolies are busy dragging their customers up the rising ground from which the quarter derives its name, and here and there a private carriage dashes by conveying some wealthy Japanese in the same direction. The race-course is not much like any that one is accustomed to see in Europe. A sanded track surrounds an artificial lake, square in shape, is the centre of which is a small island with a teahouse upon it. Occupying one side of the equare is the enclosure and grand stand the latter a large and commodious building will the imperial box in the centre. At the back is the paddock. On one side the course is overlooked by the high ground of Uyeno, now thronged with spectators; in front you. look from the grand stand " har over the city and towards the bay. This part of Tokyo was the theatre of sterner scenes some years ago; for in 1868 one of the most furious battles of the war was fought here between the imperial troops and the followers of the more deadly to contend against than a high | and extremely disagreeable wind, which is blowing full up the course from the sea, carrying with it the collected dust and refuse of the city. Among European cities Athens has a high reputation for dustiness, but the capital of the Land of the Rising Sun is more offensively dusty still.

None of the usual features of a race-meet ing are absent, in spite of the fact that it is purely a national one, got up, owned, and managed by the Japanese themselves. There is the enclosure-a gravelled space, to which two dollars is the price of MACHINERY, LAWN MOWERS. admission, and a military band playing therein-a paddock behind the grand PAINTS, OILS, VARNISH. stand, outside the usual cheap stands and refreshment tents. The starter, a gorreous official clad in hunting scarlet, is a Japanese, and so are the jockeys. There is even an attempt at a betting-ring, though the prineipal aproculative business is carried on by Europeans and takes the form of lotteries. Most of the owners are natives, though a low of the horses belong to Europeans. The animals themselves are mostly half-bred Chinese, il Japonese, with here and there an animal of pure Japanese breed. These counteres are, as arule, weak and weedy, and ne nearly so good a breed as the Uninese The bell rings, the numbers are beisted, and the course is cleared. The jockey emerge from the piddock, in most cases bading their counts. There is no preliminary currer. The moression at once moves slowly and solemnly to the Starting-post; the riders marching by their steeds, evidently unwilling to risk themselves in the saddle until the very moment when honour and duty compe! them to assume the seat of danger. Arrived, of the granting-post there is still a delay which is not quite intelligible to the spectatots in the grand stand. Viewed through plasses, two of the jockeys, who should by this time be incunted on the two favourites. are seen to be still on foot and engaged in a violent altereation with the starter. Evidently there is sumething very wrong indeed. At one time the dispute seems to be in after way to a settlement, and one of the contending jackers naments his steed and joins the other riders -only, however, to esturn more than ever inflamed with the justice of his cause, to dismount, and renow his argument: Matters are at last arranged, either by concession on the part of the starter or forbearance on the part of the jockeys; and considerably after the time appointed for the race, a start is made. The exquisitely simple Contrary to an erroneous popular belief, principle upon which Japanese juckeyship is which seems to have not yet been thoroughly formed at once become apparent. It is simexploded, the art of porcelain in China pro- ply this: to begin by finishing, to finish all perly belongs to modern history. Those the way, and to finish at ill finishing.
